

BookStart and For you and your child!

On four Thursday mornings, there will be an information session for parents with their toddler after the storytime. Each session focuses on a different theme, with tips, ideas, and space for questions. You are warmly welcome at the red round table in the children's section.

The reading session is from 10:30 to 11:00 a.m.
After that, the For You and Your Child! activity starts at 11:00 a.m.

- May 28: Singing: Which songs are fun for toddlers? Where can you find these songs? And what does your toddler learn from them?
- June 11: Wordless books: We will look together at books that only contain pictures. What can you do with these? This is also great if you are raising your child bilingually, because these books can be read in any language.
- June 18: Drawing: After reading a book, it is fun to draw together. We will share tips for fun activities and games.
- June 25: Learning words: How does a child learn new words? And how can you, as a parent, help with this? We will look at different types of books and how to read them. Of course, we will also share tips and ideas with each other.
